Information Regarding Review of Support Orders Which are Less Than 36 Months Old

You must justify a modification review on a "less than 36 month old Order" by proving a “substantial change in circumstances” that occurred since the last order or since the last modification was completed.

Examples of substantial changes for either party:

Diagnosis of a serious illness or an accident that impacts the parent’s ability to work and is expected to last for over a year

Parent suffers a 25% or greater involuntary loss of income (e.g. parent’s employer goes out of business)

Either party began receiving TANF benefits since the last order

Unanticipated windfall of money (e.g. party winning a large sum from the lottery, inheritance)

Examples which are not considered a substantial change in circumstances:

Divorce or custody order where the “custodian” agreed to “little or no” child support when the order was entered or last modified

Medical-Only Order issued by DCSS and CP later applies for full services

New financial obligations of either party, e.g. birth of another child, going into debt to purchase a house, etc

Under-employment, a job change or a voluntary decision to become self-employed

Parent is voluntarily working at a new job paying less than before

Parent is voluntarily working part-time when full-time work is available

Change in parent's income, marital status (either party) or additional expenses (e.g. new home, vehicle or recreational vehicle)

The facts described above are not all-inclusive but must convince the Georgia child support agency that these circumstances justify a "less than 36 month review". You must include documentation, not just statements, proving that the facts meet the description of a “substantial change in circumstances“. Note: This agency is not responsible for proving your allegations.

If you proceed with requesting a review for possible modification of an order that is “less than 36 months old”, you must include evidence and proof with the request. If additional information is needed for the review, you will be notified.

If the DCSS confirms that there is proof of a substantial change in circumstances, a full review will be scheduled.

If the DCSS finds that your situation does not meet the requirements of a “substantial change in circumstances”, you will be notified that the request for review is being denied.

If you have any questions, you may call the Georgia Contact Center at 1-877-423-4746.
